12th September 2025 | 10.00 AM – 4.00 PM
Mechanical Seminar Hall, Acharya Campus

About the Program

A Doctoral Symposium is a structured academic forum designed to support doctoral students in presenting and discussing their ongoing research. It provides them with an opportunity to share their ideas, receive constructive feedback, and network with peers, faculty, and industry experts.

Objectives of the Program

- To provide doctoral scholars with an opportunity to present and discuss their research work in a scholarly environment.
- To facilitate constructive feedback from experienced academics, practitioners, and fellow researchers.
- To promote interdisciplinary learning and collaboration among doctoral candidates from diverse research domains.
- To foster a network of researchers for ongoing support, mentorship, and collaboration.

Target Audience: Research Scholars

Expected Outcomes of the Program

- Participants gain insights to improve their research design, methodology, and analysis.
- Better oral presentation, poster preparation, and academic writing abilities.
- Exposure to varied research areas and interdisciplinary approaches.
- Connections with peers, mentors, and industry experts.
- Opportunities for joint research and future conference or journal submissions.
